College takes heart

Richard Hopkinson and Platform 5 Architects have won a £3 million contract to revamp sections of Waltham Forest College in north-east London.

The Heart of the College scheme focuses on the refurbishment of the large central hall space as a new learning centre, which will be visible from the main entrance and revamped reception.

The area will also feature a new mezzanine level and seminar room.

The existing raised stage will be retained and enclosed within moveable walls to allow the learning zone to be used for performances and events.
